Obiettivi di apprendimento

Conoscenze

The course has two main objectives. The first is to become familiar with the pragmatic notions and categories mentioned above so that they can be used as tools for the analysis of English real texts and conversations; the other is to make students aware of the cultural specificities of some figures of speech and of their use in written texts. Enrichment of the vocabulary is also an objective of the Course.

Prerequisiti (conoscenze iniziali)

In order to sit the exam on the course students must have passed the English language 1 and 2 exams.

The course is made up of two parts: a thematic course given by the lecturers (prof. Bertucelli and Dr. Cappelli) and a "lettorato" (language practice) taught by English speaking instructors (Dr. Hale and Dr. Smith). The thematic course will be given in the first semester. Both the Course and the lettorato aim at bringing the participants to the C1 (advanced) level of proficiency in English. To this end, students are expected to follow both as part of the course work. The thematic course will take place in the first term (September – December). The lettorato will cover the two terms (September - December and February – May). In order to complete the course and receive the 9 credits, all students are required to take a written assessment test focusing on the contents of the thematic course and a language proficiency test verifying the attainment of the C1 proficiency level in English. (More information on the lettorato classes is available on MOODLE-CLI). Internationally recognized certificates of language proficiency (e.g. CAE, IELTS, etc. – not older than two years) can be presented as proof of the required language proficiency in substitution of the lettorato test.

Programma (contenuti dell'insegnamento)

TITLE OF THE COURSE: Pragmatics and Figurative Language

MODULE A:

Pragmatics is basically the study of how speakers use words and sentences to convey meaning above and beyond their literal expressions. This course surveys several core issues in pragmatics and English figurative language. The Pragmatics module will be particularly concerned with the distinction between semantic and pragmatic meaning. Topics: 1. semantics vs. pragmatics; 2. context and types of knowledge necessary to recover intended meaning (situational, general background knowledge, interpersonal), deixis; 3. entailment and presupposition; 4. speech acts; 5. inferences and the Cooperative principle; 6. theories of politeness; 7. intercultural pragmatics; 8. pragmatics in specific discourse domain; 9. discourse markers; 10. meaning and humour: the contribution of semantics and pragmatics.

Module B: Figurative Language

The Figurative Language module will explore the literal / non- literal meaning debate, with special focus on the following topics: Idioms, Metaphor, Hyperbole, Metonymy, Irony, Understatement, Overstatement. Theoretical approaches: Gricean Pragmatics, Relevance Theory, Cognitive Linguistics.
